NOBEL LAUREATE ELIE WIESEL TO SPEAK AT G.W.

Nobel Peace Prize winner and noted author Elie Wiesel will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 22 at The George Washington University's Lisner Auditorium (730 21st St., NW).

Wiesel, who has spent most of his adult life exposing the world to the tragedy of the Holocaust, will speak on "Building a Moral Society."

Proceeds from the event will go toward supporting the programs of The George Washington University B'nai B'rith Hillel House.

Admission is open to the public. Ticket prices for the address range from $12 to $50, with a half-price discount available for all students with a current ID. In addition to the standard ticket availability, there are three categories of patron support that will enable contributors to participate in other special activities held that evening, including the opportunity to meet Elie Wiesel in person.

For additional program or ticket information, contact G.W. Hillel at (202) 296-8873.

and GW Associate Director of Housing and Residence Life Kathleen Jordan. Rabbi Gerald Serotta, director of GW's B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, will moderate.

Cox, the Victor S. Thomas Professor of Divinity at Harvard University, has appeared frequently as a commentator on religious affairs, most recently on NBC's "Meet the Press," on Sunday, March 29. The author of several books including The Secular City, Feast of Fools, and Turning East, Cox has recently been involved in Harvard's response to Secretary of Education William Bennett's views regarding teaching morals in higher education.

Peter Caws, who holds the prestigious faculty rank of "University Professor" at GW, is the author of several books including The Philosophy of Science: A Systematic Account, Science and the Theory of Value and Sartre.

Kathy Jordan was appointed associate director of GW Housing and Residence Life in 1985 after serving five years as assistant director. She received her Ph.D. in social and philosophical foundations of education from Michigan State University in 1981.
